The Passion and Resurrection of the Moorish Hiram: Or the Metaphysical Subjugation and Posthumous Emancipation of the So-Called Black Race By Amen El

What is become of that Mighty Moorish Empire whose judicious administration once directed the affairs of the World and the Seven Seas? That Sovereign Governance that reigned supreme for over a thousand years, whose genius and perspicuity ushered a somnambulistic Medieval Europe through the precipitous shadows of Dark Ages into the illumined twilight of the Renaissance? Little now is remembered of her monumental cultural achievements and vast erudition. How could such a magnificent legacy vanish so thoroughly, almost without a vestige? It appears that someone has taken great pains to systematically obliterate our chronicles from the hallowed memoirs of classical Western civilization? So we began this serious inquisition. Why are the prolific records of the contributions of our dusky ancestors relegated to virtual obscurity? Why the cumbersome shroud of secrecy? Initially, every inquiry into our mysterious past seemed to lead to a cul-de-sac. Soon, almost everywhere we began to detect an odor of villainy. So we intensified our efforts and commenced excavations wherever we caught a whiff. Alas beneath layers of metaphor and cryptic archeological equivocation, we discovered in the shallow graves of Western academia fertile remains of our beloved Moorish ancestors, the ancient Master-builders of world civilization! How wonderfully ironic, that the adversary in his hysterical attempt to suppress and mask the truth our glorious heritage, unwittingly scattered about such valuable forensic traces. Our exertions have actually been rendered easier thanks to the fastidious efforts of our antagonists. Alas, this is the Aquarian Age. The auspicious season had dawned and the Resurrection of the Moorish Hiram is become a manifest inevitability. Already the ancestors are speaking unto and through us words of power. They whisper of Alchemy, of lost Hermetic sciences, of mystical words possessing the puissance of restoring the sick and even raising the dead! Amen Al-Azar El

Editorial Review

About the Author

The author is a Free Moor, hailing originally from the rural Carolinas, but now domiciled in Northern New Jersey, employed as a professional counselor. He holds a Bachelor's Degree in Psychology from William Paterson University. Amen El currently attends Thomas Edison State College in pursuit of a Master's degree in Management Science. His hobbies include the study of Freemasonry, comparative religion, esoteric philosophy, occult symbolism, photography, and graphic arts. During his earlier years, Amen achieved professional competency in Chung Do Kwan Tae Kwon Do. According to the author, it was during this period that he grasped the prolific nature of ritual. Since the dawn of conscious awareness, he has exhibited a healthy interest in all things metaphysical or occult and understood that ultimate reality transcends the observable. Born intuitive, the author documents several significant encounters with what is generally referred to as the supernatural. He considers many of these psychic experiences as enhanced through protracted experimentation with such abstruse mechanisms as Tarot, light and sound devices, and practices such as psychoanalysis and astral projection. Amen is also a faithful practitioner of a modified form of Kundalini Yoga. He is convinced that such practices sharpen psychic perception and advances spiritual evolution. Throughout life, he has demonstrated a close affinity with living nature. Amen fosters a healthy regard for culture and ethnicity and considers these key factors in resolving the existential dilemma. He considers all humans sovereign and endowed with the absolute liberty of self-determination. His life work is dedicated to unearthing and reconnecting the buried and scattered remnants of Moorish history and in assisting fallen humanity in their quest to reach higher degrees of social and moral equilibrium. The author is absolutely convinced that eventually enlightenment and love will replace ignorance and fear and universal harmony will prevail upon the planet.
